THE CONFERENCE

Day to day methods for practical strategies and actions for addressing adverse childhood experiences (ACEs) through trauma-informed, trauma-responsive education, and social and racial justice will be shared. We will explore anti-racist practices, and culturally responsive care, based on the sciences of child and human development to strengthen and sustain equitable learning environments and actions, curricula explorations, and family engagement.

MEET OUR KEYNOTE SPEAKERS

Senta Greene, MA, CCLS

Dr. Kathleen Van Antwerp

Senta and Kathleen have over 30 years of educating and advocating for children and families across the human life span from early childhood to emerging adulthood. They have a proven track record in empowering schools and organizations to engage in conscious communication and practices surrounding equity and anti-racist practices. In their unique co-facilitation presentation style, they unite their voices to engage the participants in an experience exploring reflective practice, positive coping and personal empowerment with an emphasis on family engagement, cultural humility, and stemming the rising tide of children living in trauma and experiencing adverse childhood experiences. Senta and Kathleen use a range of participatory methods and custom designed processes that activate thinking, team building, personal connection, commitment, and direction with measurable results.
